

Jonathan Wolman joined Miller Chicago after 15 years as a Managing Broker running his own firm, where he had extensive experience in development, financial analysis, residential property management and leasing, and retail tenant representation. He began his career at the investment bank Kidder, Peabody & Co. in New York City. Moving to Chicago for graduate school, he fell in love with the city and has been involved with real estate here ever since. After business school he worked in the Real Estate Corporate Finance group at Citicorp, followed by time in the Acquisitions Department of Prime Group Realty Trust. At Prime, he worked on over $850 million of Chicago area office acquisitions, departing only to begin a decade of development winning a Realtor's Association award for his efforts and real estate investment on his own. Having been on all different sides of real estate transactions, he brings a versatile background to his clients, and the ability to have a firsthand understanding of a transaction from their viewpoint. Jonathan received a BS in Economics with a double major in Real Estate & Marketing from the Wharton School of The University of Pennsylvania, a BA in Political Science from The University of Pennsylvania, and his MBA with a triple concentration in Accounting, Economics, and Finance from the University of Chicago. He is a licensed Real Estate Instructor in Illinois, and serves as Adjunct Faculty in the Continuing Education Department of Triton College. Passionate about animal sheltering and rescue, he sits on the board of the local group FCACC.
